DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

2. Claims 16-18, 25 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Herron (US 6,193,565).

Herron discloses an electrical conductor splice connector [10, figures 1-3C] comprising:

- a body [12];
- a pair of opposing conductor contacting wedges [14 or 16];
- a first one of the wedges [14] comprises a cantilevered bar [60] slidably extends into a receiving area of a second one of the wedges for interlocking between the wedges [figure 1];
- the body comprises two wedge receiving areas [18, figure 1] having open top sides;
- the body comprises tapered wedge grooves for receiving the wedges; and
- the detail structure and the method of assembling the splice connector are shown in figures 1 and 3B.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 2839

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4, 11-15, 19-21, 26-27 and 29-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Herron in view of Goto (US 5,044,996).

Herron discloses the instant claimed invention as described above except for an anti-reverse clip connected to the body and being engaged with serrations formed in the wedges.

Goto discloses teaches a wedge connector [figure 1-2] comprising a lance integral formed in a body [42] read on applicant's an anti-reverse clip connected to the body and being engaged with serrations [28] formed in a wedge [12].

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to modify the connector of Herron to provide the anti-reverse system including the clip and serrations as taught by Goto for the purpose of preventing the wedge(s) from backing out under the compressive forces building up in the conductor and the resilient outward displacement of both sides of the body, as is well known in the art of the electrical connectors.

The method steps are inherit in the product structure.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 2839

5. Claims 5-10 and 22-24 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art of record does not teach or render obvious the combination, cooperation and interaction that applicant claimed an electrical conductor splice connector comprising an anti-reverse clip having a removal tab, as recited with other elements in the claims 1 and 16; and a wedge stop formed at a rear of the clip, as recited with other elements in the claim 1.
